Participation in the 3rd SDSN Mediterranean Conference and Official Launch of SDSN Greece is by invitation only

Dear Conference Participants,

The recent decision by U.S. President Donald Trump to withdraw the U.S.A. from the Paris Climate Accord is an action that threatens to impede global progress on sustainable development. The pursuit of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) via science driven solutions that are identified and diffused through the Sustainable Development Solutions Network (SDSN) has now become even more important!

SDSN–Greece and SDSN–Mediterranean constitute an important contribution towards global progress on sustainability issues. It is thus with great pleasure that we welcome you to the Official launch of SDSN–Greece and the 3rd SDSN Mediterranean Conference. The hosting Institutions for SDSN–Greece are the International Centre for Research on the Environment and the Economy (ICRE8), and the Laboratory on Political Economy of Sustainable Development (PESD) of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (NKUA). Both events are organized by ICRE8 and PESD, in collaboration with the Athens University of Economics and Business Laboratory on Research on Socio-Economic and Environmental Sustainability (ReSEES/AUEB) and ATHENA Research and Innovation Center.

ICRE8 is dedicated to interdisciplinary research on the Environment, Energy, Economy, Eco-innovations and their e-versions (hence E8). Central to ICRE8's mission is the pursuit of excellence in conducting research, and a commitment to exploring environmental, natural resources and energy issues, for a variety of circumstances and stakeholders and across different temporal and spatial scales. ICRE8 focuses on developing structured and methodologically sound approaches to recognizing, demonstrating and capturing the 'Total Economic Value' of resources, and integrating it in the development of sustainable management tools and policy making. ICRE8 researchers constitute a large network of leading experts based in Greece, but also in Europe, the U.S.A., Asia and Australia.

PESD is a new research lab that focuses, inter alia, on how institutions, the political environment, and the economy interact and influence each other and thus form the underlying conditions that allow or prevent sustainable development. The importance of the political economy dimension is apparent when considering the failings of the global community to take adequate climate action in view of the unprecedented scientific consensus for its need. The obstacles to concerted action can be found in the way that political and economic power prevent the necessary institutional, political, and economic changes that will bring about a transition to a low carbon economy. The lab is dedicated to researching this crucial political economy dimension of sustainable development, as well as promoting teaching and student involvement in these matters.

ICRE8, ReSEES/AUEB, ATHENA, and recently SDSN–Greece and PESD, form a cluster of leading research institutes with a strong commitment to research on sustainable management of natural capital and technology, with an exceptional record in attracting research funding, completing influential projects, and producing numerous academic and other publications, all with explicit policy interventions.

On behalf of SDSN–Greece, we extend our warmest thanks to every one of you for participating in these events and to everyone who helped make them possible. Enjoy the science, the city, and most of all the brain-storming with colleagues and friends! We have many issues to work on and many causes to fight for!
